WILLIAM CLAY FORD, President

The man who made the biggest and boldest commitment in the history of the Lions is their biggest and most loyal fan. He is also their owner and president, William Clay Ford.

The decision to move the team to the suburbs and the new Pontiac Stadium was strictly and finally his alone. The results of that decision are more gratifying every time he steps into the magnificent domed structure that now houses his Lions.

Mr. Ford is the club's chief executive as well as its top fan. He is totally involved with the team, first because of his daily duties within the organization and second because of his strong support of pro football as the best sport in the world.

Mr. Ford's goal in pro football — both as an executive and as a fan — is to win the championship of the National Football League. The move to Pontiac and the new stadium was another step in the plan to bring the team closer to this goal.

He has been a part of the Lions' past championship years, being a director of the syndicate since 1956, a year before they won their last title. He took over the presidency in 1961 and in 1964, he purchased the franchise and became owner-president.

In addition to his many duties as leader of the Lions and his activities in national and local civic organizations, he also is involved in the automotive industry. He is a director of the Ford Motor Company and Vice President—Product Design.

A grandson of the late Henry Ford, who founded the company, and the youngest of four children of the late Edsel B. Ford, he was born in Detroit. He attended Detroit University School at Grosse Pointe, and Hotchkiss School at Lakeville, Connecticut.

Mr. Ford enlisted in the Navy Air Corps in 1943 and was in flight training at the time of his discharge two years later. He then enrolled at Yale University and was graduated in 1949 with a bachelor of science degree in economics.

He joined the company's sales and advertising staff that same year, and later served on the Industrial Relations Staff, where he was a member of the committee that negotiated the company's 1949 contract with the UAW-CIO. He became quality control manager for the Lincoln-Mercury Division's jet engine defense project in 1951.

In 1952, Mr. Ford was appointed manager of Special Product Operations in charge of a group of engineers and designers engaged in advanced planning of the Continental Mark II. His election as vice president was announced in May, 1953.

He was vice president and general manager of the Continental Division from 1954 to 1956 when Continental operations were consolidated with the Lincoln Division. Mr. Ford then assumed responsibility for corporate product planning and design. He has held his present position since May, 1973.

He was elected a member of the Board of Directors in 1948. Chairman of the Design Committee, he is also a member of several other committees of the company. He is a director of Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, and chairman of the board of trustees of the Edison Institute, which operates Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village in Dearborn.

He is also secretary-treasurer of Henry Ford Hospital in Detroit, president of the Edsel B. Ford Institute for Medical Research, a trustee of Hotchkiss School, the Michigan Heart Association and the Eisenhower Medical Center, and a director of the National Tennis Hall of Fame and the United Foundation of Detroit.

He is married to the former Martha Firestone of Akron, Ohio. They have three daughters and a son.

RUSS THOMAS
Executive Vice President and General Manager

Now in his tenth year of overseeing the daily operation of the Lions as general manager, Russ Thomas is a veteran of 30 years of service to the club.

Starting in 1946, he has been a player, a scout, a coach, a broadcaster, and a player-personnel man. And now, since 1967, he is a vice president and the executive who handles the many daily details of running a professional football team.

Like Mr. Ford, he too has been a part of the Lions' past championship years. In 1952 and '53, when the team won two of its three world titles in the 1950's, he was an assistant coach.

Promoted later to the executive level, he took over the team's player-personnel department and was the director for three years. In 1967, he was made vice president and general manager. Four years ago, he was named executive vice president.

In his playing days, he was a defensive tackle. Out of West Virginia, he went went to Ohio State where he was an All-American lineman under Coach Paul Brown. in 1946, he joined the Lions and turned in four seasons in the National Football League.

Experience in all phases of the game is his in abundance. A new facet was added last year with the team's move to the Pontiac Stadium and the many decisions and problems involved in relocating the growing organization.

At the end of his long and eventful days in the office, he goes home to his wife, Dorothy, at their home in Walled Lake. They also have a cottage in Chelsea. The Thomases have two married sons, John and Jim.

ROGERS LEHEW
Assistant General Manager

Pronounce it LĒE-hugh and don't forget the "s" in the first name. And there you have the correct name of the Lions' active assistant general manager.

His activity comes from his involvement in all departments of the club's operation. However, his chief duties revolve around the player-personnel department.

As supervisor of this important area, he works with Tommy Hudspeth, the Lions' Coordinator of Personnel and Scouting. He works closely on the draft and the evaluation of talent, both pro and college. Here he deals with college scouts Jerry Neri and Joe Bushofsky.

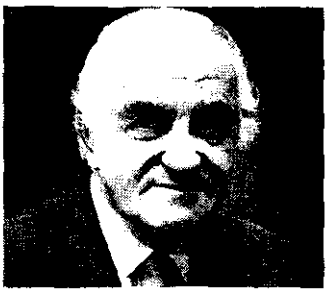
Negotiations with players in regard to salaries is also in his area. He is the team's liaison with BLESTO, one of the scouting combines in the National Football League.

His experience as an executive comes from 15 seasons in the Canadian Football League. He was with the Calgary Stampeders from 1959 to 1973. He joined the Lions in 1974 as assistant to general manager Russ Thomas.

Not a Canadian, but a Texan, Rogers went to college in Oklahoma, at the University of Tulsa. He got into coaching at Tulsa upon graduation in 1951. He went to the CFL as assistant general manager to Jim Finks, now with the Bears. When Finks moved to Minnesota in 1964, Rogers was elevated to the G.M. role.

Lehew and his wife, Joan, live in Birmingham, with their twin sons, Larry and Garry, who go to the University of Windsor. A married daughter, Lora, lives in Calgary.

EDWIN J. ANDERSON
Consultant



A man of many titles during his long career with the Lions, "Andy" Anderson has done it all. Twice he has represented the force behind significant events in the club's history.

First, he organized the syndicate of Detroit-area businessmen who purchased the Lions in 1948. Second, and most recently, he played an instrumental part in the team's transition to Pontiac.

In both cases his dominance as an executive came through. As leader of the syndicate, he was the president for 11 years and general manager for three others. He was a vice president for 12 more years.

Thus, he has served the Lions and the world of professional football for over a quarter century. It is an impressive mark shared by few in the National Football League.

As far back as the early 1960s, he saw the need for a new sports stadium in the Detroit area. Through the years, with his never-ending determination and enthusiasm, the long-dreamed project took form. When the City of Pontiac stepped in with its plan, and Mr. Ford made his commitment, it was made a reality.

Pontiac Stadium, home of the Lions: it's a vision finally realized for this dedicated and hard-driving executive. Now as consultant, he continues to serve the organization in many valued ways.

Mr. Anderson and his wife, Sunny, have residences in Bloomfield Hills and Palm Springs, California. They have a married daughter, Merny, Mrs. Richard Williams.

RICK FORZANO
Head Coach

In his two seasons at the helm of the Lions, his teams have finished with average records, all-even at seven wins, seven losses both years.

Rick Forzano is not satisfied with being average. He is a perfectionist, an idealist, who strives for the best, not the average. And, with his undying enthusiasm and confidence, he will continue to aim to be the best. He wants his team to be the best—or else.

Indeed, he has said that if he doesn't achieve his goal of bringing a division title to the Detroit area in the next two years, he will step aside.

A man of deep faith and love, he exudes optimism in everything he does. A positive-thinker, he thoroughly believes in the basic philosophy, "let's get it done" and not "can it be done?"

He is a teacher of the game he loves. He has been a student of it since a tragic accident robbed him of the chance to be a player. As a 14-year-old high school sophomore, he suffered a severe eye injury that suddenly put his football future in coaching instead of playing.

His coaching career is now in its 24th year, dating back to 1953 and the start in his native Ohio. He has been a head coach three other times, at an Akron high school, at the University of Connecticut, and at the Naval Academy. Other professional positions were with St. Louis and Cincinnati.

He works as hard as he asks that his staff and players do. He has faith in himself and preaches it to his "family". Through encouragement and praise, and hard work, success will come to this dedicated, principled leader of men.

HISTORY OF THE DETROIT LIONS

Now in their 43rd year of representing the Detroit area in the National Football League, the Lions were preceded by three teams, none of which met with much success.

Professional football first came on the Detroit sports scene in 1920 with the advent of the Detroit Heralds. They were a charter member of the American Professional Football Association, which was the original name of the present National Football League. But, they folded after two years. Then, the Detroit Panthers appeared in 1925. They also folded after two years. In 1928, the Detroit Wolverines were formed, but they failed after only one season.

In 1930, the then ten-year-old National Football League took in a franchise from Portsmouth, Ohio called the Spartans. After four seasons, the team was purchased for less than $8,000 by Detroit radio executive George A. Richards and was moved to the Motor City.

Playing in the University of Detroit Stadium before average crowds of 16,000 people, the new Detroit Lions won the NFL championship in their second year, 1935. Under the leadership of Coach "Potsy" Clark and stars such as Hall of Famer "Dutch" Clark, Ernie Caddel, George Christensen, "Ace" Gutowsky, Glenn Presnell and "Ox" Emerson, the early Lions established pro football in Detroit and for over 40 years it has been an integral part of the Michigan sports scene.

In 1940 Chicagoan Fred Mandel bought the club. Lion stars of that era were Hall of Famers Bill Dudley and Alex Wojciechowicz, John Greene, "Whizzer" White, Frank Sinkwich and "Camp" Wilson. Eight years later the club was sold to a group of local businessmen under the leadership of Edwin J. Anderson. The Detroit syndicate controlled the team until 1964 when William Clay Ford became sole owner for six million dollars. The club is now in its 13th year of the "Ford administration".

In the 1950's the Lions dominated the NFL with four division titles and three league championships. Under Head Coach Buddy Parker, the team was the back-to-back League champion in 1952 and 1953, defeating Cleveland in both title games. Stars of those glittering teams were such as Hall of Famers Bobby Layne and Jack Christiansen, Doak Walker, Les Bingaman, Cloyce Box and Bob Hoernschemeyer. The Lions' battles with the Browns in those days were classic confrontations between two giants of the blossoming NFL.

Since their last title year of 1957, under the coaching of George Wilson, the Lions have been looking in vain for the top spot. Such stars as Hall of Famers Joe Schmidt and "Night Train" Lane, and Wayne Walker, Nick Pietrosante, Alex Karras and Terry Barr have taken their places in the annals of pro football in Detroit.

In the 1960's the Lions had a couple of coaching changes with the longest term being that of former great player Joe Schmidt who coached for six seasons. His 1970 team made the post-season playoffs, but lost in the first round.

Now in the middle 1970's under the direction of Head Coach Rick Forzano and with current stars such as Charlie Sanders, Lem Barney, Steve Owens, Bill Munson, Greg Landry and Herb Orvis, the Lions are a squad of exciting, entertaining and enthusiastic players whose one aim is to return the team to a place at the top of the NFL.

For the 1975 season, the Lions moved into a fantastic new home in Pontiac, Michigan, a town of 85,000 people located 30 miles north of Detroit. Originally named Pontiac Metropolitan Stadium—"PonMet"—it is a football-only sports building that seats over 80,000 spectators under a fiberglas roof. It is the largest air-supported domed structure in the world.
